“ Happy Hal was a true friend, always smiling, and a joy to know. Once on my birthday he did an appearance on a morning show and he told me to watch because he had a surprise for me. He wished me a happy birthday on television. After Hack passed away he would periodically call to check on me. I loved playing the drums while he sang and singing songs he requested of me. You will be missed my friend. You did make this world a better place just by being yourself. We should all learn the lesson you taught, just be happy! Loronda Sparkman
