“ I remember one time when you , Dr Z., Delmar, I think Allen and Ryan was there too and we were all in the kitchen at your house, I believe we getting ready to go play paintball or have a massive video game session and Delmar went to put David (Dr Z.) in a chokehold and You stuck one of those giant cold metal sharpie markers into Delmar's side which apparently scared the everliving daylight out of him and made him jump straight up into the air as flat as a board and he came crashing down in the kitchen. and we all could do nothing but laugh (If you've never seen Delmar then just imagine a man the size of a seasoned NFL linebacker at the age of 17 so for this to go down the way it did was definitely a sight to be seen) hahahahaha. There is a lot of memories to share about you Gaston , from all of us working at Sears together, video game sessions at your house, to going to church with you and Delmar, Allen, David and your parents, to hunting hogs in bankhead with Barrett, Ryan, and David . The list goes on and on. I loved you like a brother man and like everyone else here I'm going to miss you and I so badly wish I could've gotten more time with you brother. Until we meet again G money
