“ Man. We have hit 2025. I still walk around with my ear piece thinking you're gonna call, and keep me company. I feel like I never got to grieve or fully understand you ain't here. Idk. Like with maw I was able to just type it all, but you ain't maw. You was more important to me, you was like the father I never had even tho you was my uncle. I'm trying to listen to you and lose weight, but more I get depressed without more I can't. Which ain't far to myself, because I know I need to live longer for my kids. And you would Kick my butt if I don't do something. All I can say every new years suck, knowing you're gone. Knowing it's a year close to me dying and the kids mourning over me like I'm doing you. Your death hurt the worst. However I'm glad you ain't hurting, and I mean I hope you ain't. But no body does funny like you.. and did you know I'm stronger then myself!!! I didn't know!!

ME

“ It's been weird. Like I have been wanting to come a write on your wall like I do maws, but I don't know what to say. Because it still hurts a lot, however I am glad you're not any pain anymore. I dropped friends, and made a new one or two. I'm trying to be a better me for the kids. I do try to lose weight like you asked me too, because you didn't want me to end up with health conditions. But it's hard trying to keep up. But I will I promise!! But momma and I miss you a lot. The kids do too. It funny because if soemthing weirdly funny happens out of no where Ayden thinks it's your spirit. I feel more silly writing on these walls like yall will read it, but I feel a little closer. It's like I'm sending yall a text. lol. But we miss you and love you, but also glad you are free of pain.
