“ Parson and I were childhood friends. We went to Antioch baptist church on Indian Hills road as children. His father played piano in church, and I took piano lessons from his father. He was always Parson, the best friend a person could have. He was the same caring person from the first time we met in church and school. So sorry to hear he had passed away. Wish I had known he had been sick. I would liked to have talked to him. I saw him mowing the yard last summer, stopped and talked to him. He seemed fine, was the same ole Parson I knew from my childhood. I will truly miss him.
